PRINCE DE SAGANIN NFW YORK DESPITE DENIALS OF GOULDS

Frenchman Who Has Been Pursuing Mme. Anna Gould. Former Wife of His Cousin, Count Boni, Came to New York Via Canada.

Although Prince Helie de Sagan has been dodging about with a willo'-the-wisp elusiveness and lightness of foot, and the relatives of Mme. Anna Gould have vigorously denied his arrival in this city, there seems now no doubt about it. According to Associated Press dispatches the on the floor and she minded hero of fifty bloodless duels was compelled to reveal himself on the Canadian border last Saturday after his arrival there from the Allen line steamship Victoria, which conveyed him from Liverpool to Halifax.

No One Heard Struggle.

Late last night Mrs. Braun saw two men and a woman passing through the hallway, which gives back from the street. She thinks now that they went into the kitchen of the two room flat opposite. It was in this tiny kitchen that the murder occurred some time early this morning. Nobody heard any struggle.

But from some of the mute pieces of evidence the police are piecing together a part of the story. The dead man's body was clothed in the garb of a well-to-do mechanic. His corduroy cap was lying under his body, where he fell on it. A broken link in his buttonhole shows where his watch was snatched away In his pockets was a handkerchies marked with the initials "G. C.," some colored paper confetti and a few scraps of crumby Italian candy. In the fire place, with the hatchet and the razor was a bunch of keys, including the key which Mrs. Bernstein entrusted to her new tenants last week.

The dead man was a big fellow, with long reddish moustache. It is believed that the first blow of the hatchet caught him between the eyes and clef the skull, deep into the brain, as he crossed the threshold of the door After he fell it is presumed that hi slayer or slayers struck him twice with the hatchet, bound his legs, cut his throat with the razor, robbed the body

The Sullivan clan just missed when Billy B. Van failed to get up in time in the third race. Last away from the post he ran ever everything in the run to the stretch, but the effort told on him for he had nothing left when it came to a drive. Kingsessing won handily enough after leading most of the way. Ferry Landing was third. Billy B. Van was backed from 10 to 4 to 1.

Joe Marrone was admitted to the track to-day on the payment of $2. He was denied admittance last fall, following the alleged doping of his horse. It Joseph. He brought suit for $50.00 damages against the Wasaington Jockey Club then, and suit is still pending. His admittance to-day won't interfere with his suit. Said Marrone: "I am going to fight for vindication, and won't stop till I get it."

100 to 1 Shot Wins First.

A 100 to 1 Shot won the opening race of the season. It was Sugar Pine, ridden by the unfashionable jockey. C.
